

For our office in Selb we are looking for you as

PATENT ENGINEER (M/F/O)

The NETZSCH Group is an international machinery construction company comprising three autonomous business units: "Analyzing & Testing", "Grinding & Dispersing" and "Pumps & Systems". We employ more than 3,900 employees at 210 sales and production centres in 36 countries worldwide. Become part of an internationally oriented family-owned business and support the business units by working in our innovative service unit.

Your responsibilities

- Process invention disclosures and consult with the inventors and R&D departments of NETZSCH Group
- Conduct research and analyses on the patentability of products and technologies
- Prepare, defend and enforce own property rights both in cooperation with external patent attorneys and independently, nationally and abroad
- Manage our patent and trademark database and the patent and trademark portfolio
- Register and defend trademarks
- Act as contact for all questions relating to industrial legal protection and intellectual property rights
- Prepare and administer patent information and its statistical evaluation and communicate with our national and internal clients
- Process cases of violation of technical and non-technical property rights

Your Key responsibilities

- Successfully completed patent engineering studies or a comparable qualification
- Several years of practical professional experience in a patent department, ideally at an industrial company
- Knowledge of laws on employee inventions, specifically with regard to the applicable statutory provisions on remuneration
- Profound technical understanding of and interest in legal issues relating to industrial legal protection
- Proficient work with property rights management and research tools
- Very good command of German and English
- Strong teamwork and communication skills
- Analytical and strategic thinking as well as a high sense of responsibility
